

Drinking Water Wednesdays

A free public information series about drinking water in our community

Presented by the Community Science Institute

Wednesday June, 28th

5:30 pm - 6:45 pm

Tompkins County
Public Library

BorgWarner Room

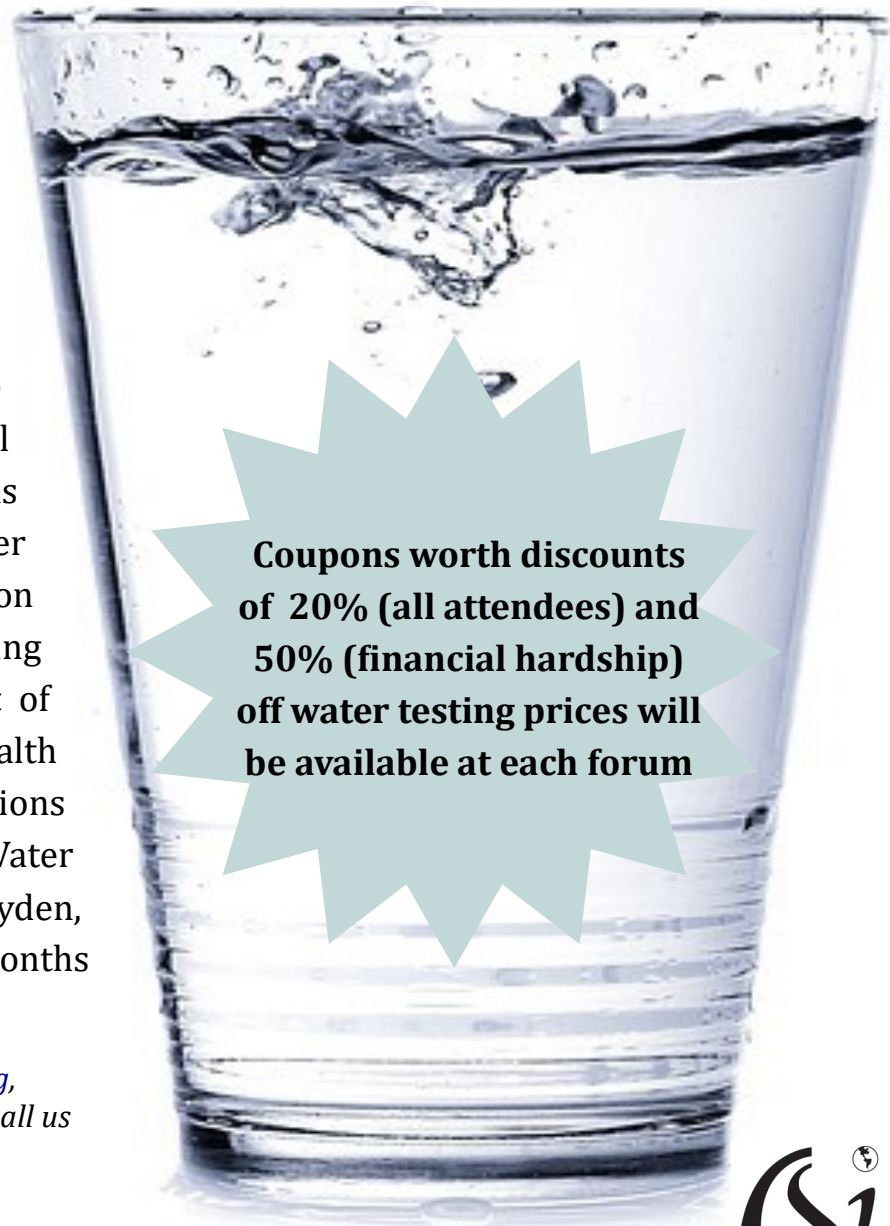

Have you ever wanted to get some basic information about your drinking water?

- What should I test my private well for?
- What is a public water supplier like the City of Ithaca required to test for?
- How do I know if my water is safe?

Please join the Community Science Institute (CSI) in collaboration with the Tompkins County Health Department for the first in our quarterly series of public forums, Drinking Water Wednesdays. CSI is a nonprofit environmental organization based in Ithaca, NY, that has operated a New York State certified water testing lab since 2003. A brief introduction will cover the most common tests including bacteria, nitrate, nitrite, and lead. Most of the forum will consist of CSI and Health Department staff responding to questions from the audience. Additional Drinking Water Wednesday forums will be held in Dryden, Newfield, and Trumansburg in the months ahead.

For more information go to communityscience.org, email us at info@communityscience.org, and/or call us at 607-257-6606

Coupons worth discounts of 20% (all attendees) and 50% (financial hardship) off water testing prices will be available at each forum

*Supported in part by a grant from the Park Foundation
